

Sarah Linden-Brooks, Member At Large

Sarah Linden-Brooks is excited to join GSCCC. She is a Lifetime Girl Scout who received her Gold Award in 2006 with the Girl Scouts of the Nation's Capital (GSCNC). Some of her favorite Girl Scouting memories are connected with service and travel—to Savannah and New York City, with her troop. She also enjoyed attending camp as a girl and working at GS Camp Laurel in Connecticut.

Sarah graduated from Christopher Newport University before heading to New England where she worked at a variety of organizations as an informal educator. She pursued a graduate degree in history and museum studies from Northeastern University while working for the National Park Service. In 2013, Sarah and her husband, Steven, moved to Norfolk. Over the past decade, Sarah has taught history at area colleges and served in roles as a museum educator, both fulfilling a passion for teaching. She is currently the Director of Sail Nauticus, a community sailing center in Norfolk, focused on making sailing experiences both accessible and engaging to area residents. Sarah and Steven have a toddler, Penelope, and two lab rescue pups, Boofy and Trixie.
