

Consider volunteering your time.

Whether it is as a troop leader or a one-time service, you will be making a difference.

Military service members from the USS John F. Kennedy volunteered to help place tents and build a ramp at Camp Skimino.

Navy Captain Terra Gray gives time as a troop volunteer and serves as a role model!

Girl Scouts of the Colonial Coast supports military families in Hampton Roads and beyond.

Our council footprint includes some of the largest military installations in the country, and we understand the importance of finding meaningful community connections for military families.

No matter where you go next, Girl Scouts is at the ready with tried-and-true programming and a supportive network that allows girls to continue their unique leadership journeys, build new friendships, and enjoy a reliable, safe space of their own.

As a military family making moves across the country, it can be overwhelming figuring out the ins and outs of living in a new community. Girl Scouts welcomes us in each new place with a sense of normalcy and consistency when everything else is changing. I'm grateful that Girl Scouts has been there, and not only for my child, but for me, too! Some of the best friends I've made in each state we've lived, I met while volunteering for Girl Scouts. ♥ Kim Dodson

Girl Scout Gold Award

The highest award in Girl Scouting opens a lot of doors, but it also comes with an extra perk—Gold Award Girl Scouts enter the armed forces one rank higher than other recruits! They also earn national and local scholarships, and belong to a lifetime network as a Gold Award Girl Scout alum.

Military Explore Patch Programs

The Military Explore Patch Program series was created to provide girls at any level a variety of activities and experiences that will help them learn about military branches. We are proud to offer 5 explore patches for each branch of the United States military.

U.S. Army Pride patch

U.S. Navy Pride patch

U.S. Coast Guard Pride patch

U.S. Air Force Pride patch

U.S. Marine Pride patch

No matter where you are in the world, Girl Scouts is there to help you adjust to the culture... and make new friends!
